The Massachusetts Department of Public Utilities (DPU) seeks a legal intern for the summer of 2015. The Department of Public Utilities is an adjudicatory agency that is responsible for oversight of investor-owned electric power, natural gas, and water utilities in the Commonwealth; developing alternatives to traditional regulation; monitoring service quality; and regulating safety in the transportation and gas pipeline areas. For more information on the DPU, please see <http://www.mass.gov/dpu>.

The intern will work in the DPU's Legal Division on various research and writing projects, focusing on energy and regulatory law. The intern will attend meetings with DPU staff as needed and may attend on-site hearings and conferences as well.

This position is funded by The Charitable Foundation of the Energy Bar Association (CFEBA). The CFEBA Legal Intern will receive a stipend from the CFEBA. The stipend amount will be $5,000 for a 10-week internship, payable in two increments.
